22 Killed As Servicemen's Airliner Hits Big Signboard

21 Injured As Plane Hits On Approach

CHICAGO, July 17 (AP)—An airliner carrying many servicemen struck a signboard while attempting to land in a fog today at Midway Airport and crashed, killing 22 persons and injuring 21.

The twin-engine Convair 340 flicked the sign with its left wing on a low approach in one-half mile visibility. It smashed into a steel wire fence girding the airport, snapped off its right wing, and somersaulted to a grinding stop upside down.

Several of the victims died after being taken to hospitals.

Airport officials said the plane, carrying 40 passengers and a crew of three on a regularly scheduled Braniff Airways flight from Dallas to Chicago, probably would have landed routinely had its course been a few feet higher.

Coroner Counts Dead
The count of dead was made by Norman Gibbons, Cook County deputy coroner.

One of those killed was Chester A. Wynn Jr., of Oak Park, Ill., a senior at the University of Notre Dame. A football player, Troy Lindsey of Midwest City, Okla., was killed. He was identified by letters, in a pocket, discussing a contract deal with the Chicago Cardinals professional football team.

The last body was not removed from the shattered plane until some three hours after the crash at 7:20 a.m.

Airport Manager John A. Casey said the control tower had received a routine report from the craft it was preparing to land for the landing. Smoke and fog limited visibility to about a half mile. Casey said there was no indication of trouble from the plane's crew.

Among the dead was Capt. Allen Tobin of Dallas, pilot of the plane. Killed also was the stewardess, Mary Teel. The co-pilot, Woodrow Hanks of Dallas, was among those injured.

Wing In Flames
One wing of the aircraft burst into flames in the crash.

A passenger who suffered minor injuries, James Ware, 21, of Mansfield, Ohio, en route home from Bergstrom Air Force Base, Texas, said:

"I was dozing. The plane was coming down through the clouds. I felt it hit and then skid. Then I was hanging upside down, waiting for someone to get me out."

Many of the passengers, like Ware, an Air Force officer, were servicemen stationed at Bergstrom AFB.

John E. Faust Jr., of Youngstown, Ohio, another Air Force officer injured, said passengers sitting in the wing section, near the center of the plane, fared better than those near the ends.

The plane, on a regularly scheduled flight, had stopped at Oklahoma City and Wichita, Kan., before reaching Chicago.

Twelve Russian
Farmers Land
In Farmbelt

DES MOINES, July 17 (AP)—Twelve Russian agriculturists arrived by air late today to start their five-week study of American farming methods in five farmbelt states.

Headed by First Deputy Minister of Agriculture V. V. Matskevich, the Russian experts will spend two weeks in the world-leading corn and hog state of Iowa.

The Soviet delegation received a cordial reception by about 400 persons at the Des Moines airport. The visitors later were to be entertained at a cocktail party sponsored by the Des Moines Register and Tribune while they suggested editorially recently an exchange of agricultural experts between the United States and the Soviet Union.

Hickenlooper To Press For More Atomic Energy Funds

WASHINGTON, July 17 (AP)—Sen. Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) declared today a vigorous Senate fight will be waged to restore cuts in Atomic Energy Commission funds. He said the agency might be crippled without the money.

Hickenlooper, senior Republican on the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee, said at least 100 million dollars in lopped-off AEC funds should be restored in a supplemental money bill before Congress adjourns.

A regular appropriations bill sent to President Eisenhower last week carried only $1,380,847,000 of the $1,525,251,000 requested for the AEC.

The President, in signing the bill Friday, criticized the $144,404,000 cut in his budget request.

He said it could seriously interfere with AEC programs "crucial" to the nation's defense and to its leadership in developing peaceful uses of atomic energy.

Hickenlooper said the Senate had voted $1,481,847,000 for the agency and the House $1,423,847,000. Conferees then sought to reach a compromise, he said, but through an honest mistake in arranging the figures, the actual allowance in the final version was 43 million under the House figure.

Actually, the senator maintained, the AEC must have at least the appropriation originally voted by the Senate to get by in the current financial year which began July 1.

On a television program conducted by Republican Rep. Keating of New York, for showing in Rochester and Buffalo, Butler said the central issue in the 1956 presidential campaign will concern "returning our federal government into the hands of the people and having a people's president."

Two Girls Injured By Rifle Shot

BROOKHAVEN, N.Y., July 17 (AP)—Two young West End girls were hospitalized with minor gunshot wounds last night after their grandfather's rifle accidentally discharged.

Fern Ridge State police listed the girls as Joanne R. Bond, 8, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willis H. Bond, Brookhaven, and Jill McNett, 11, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. LaVerne McNett, Scottdale.

Monroe County General Hospital authorities said the girls had sustained only minor injuries from tiny fragments of metal from the bullet.

The hospital listed the injuries as follows: Joanne Bond—gunshot wounds of the right forearm and over the right knee; Jill McNett—gunshot wounds of the right thigh, right leg and right forearm.

Groundhog Hunt
State police said the accident occurred as the girls' grandfather, Harley Bond, 63 of Brookhaven, was preparing to go outside to shoot groundhogs.

Police said Bond went into the kitchen and got his .22 caliber rifle from a closet there. Bond loaded the rifle, police said, and in snapping the mechanism in place a faulty part of the gun apparently caused it to discharge.

The bullet from the rifle hit fieldstone near where the girls were standing, ricocheted—and fragmented, striking the girls, police said. The particles of metal were so tiny, hospital officials said, that it was not possible to remove some of them last night.

Dead was Guy Farando, 65. His wife, Laura, 43, was taken to a hospital with a wound in the thigh. Patrolman David Blumenfeld heard the shots while walking near the Farando home. Patrolmen Arthur McBride and Regis Halloran, on duty in a radio car, drove up to the house just as Blumenfeld got there.

McBride said they found the husband dead on the kitchen floor with his wounded wife nearby.

West Seeks To Discover Red Peace Views

GENEVA, July 17 (AP)—Eight years of bitter conflict between Russia and the Western world set the stage of history for tomorrow's summit conference. Two years of cautious and hopeful peacemaking have not served to end the conflict nor wipe out its deepest fears.

A major aim of President Eisenhower and other Western leaders at Geneva will be to discover, so far as possible, whether present Soviet leaders really want peace, and if so what price they are willing to pay for it.

Presumably Premier Bulganin and Communist party chief Nikita Khrushchev also intend to conduct a diplomatic reconnaissance against the West—to see what concessions may be won in whatever deals the Soviets want to launch here.

To Relax Tensions
The Geneva meeting has been billed by its participants as an exercise in promoting peace and relaxing tensions. To many of the slightly skeptical professional diplomats it seems certain also to be an exercise in conflict, a continuation of the cold war with high stakes ultimately at issue.

The stakes, as the game must be played here and in future negotiations growing out of Geneva, include the future of divided Germany, the creation of a stable power-balance in Europe, the prestige of Russia and the West among neutral nations, disarmament in an atomic age.

On the eve of the talks opening tomorrow, Bulganin and Khrushchev have the Western delegations intrigued and not a little puzzled. There are two widely different theories to explain their presence here.

Want Breathing Spell
One theory, which appeals strongly to Secretary of State Dulles and other top Western diplomats, is that Russia is hurting in agriculture and industry. Bulganin and Khrushchev, according to this view, want a breathing spell—they want to suspend the cold war at least for a time.

The opposite theory which also finds some strong private support among Western diplomats is that the Soviets are operating on an aggressive rather than a defensive strategy; they are out to wreck West German rearmament and eventually the North Atlantic Alliance. They are trying by a show of kindness to relax the West and isolate the United States from Europe.

Some of the experts who have made a lifetime study of Soviet foreign policy and operations say that probably both these theories are true in part. They reason that the Soviets want a breathing spell, but they want it at the greatest possible cost to the West. They are well aware that Western governments also are under great pressure to relax.

Slugging May End
Some Allied leaders feel that from a strictly tactical point of view the West would be better able to keep up its unity and its strength if the cold war continued as a slugging match. But, as one authority suggested today, the Western democracies can't wage a slugging match if the other fellow stops slugging.

To that extent the Soviets have the initiative in Geneva and in the circumstances that led up to the agreement to meet. Now the problem for Eisenhower, Prime Minister Eden and Premier Faure is to test the sincerity of their decision to stop slugging.

Red Chinese Hint Purge Of High Members Of Commie Part With Vice Arrests

TOKYO, July 17 (AP)—Red China today announced two prominent Chinese Communist party members would be prosecuted as "counter-revolutionaries" and indicated a purge soon may strike even higher in the party.

Peiping radio broadcast said the Standing Committee of the National People's Congress Saturday "ratified the arresting and placing on trial on Pan Han-nien, vice mayor of Shanghai, and Hu Feng."

Hu, whose fall from grace was announced in May, was identified by Peiping as a "noted Chinese writer." The broadcast did not say whether Pan and Hu were in custody.

Both are members of the Congress, Red China's parliament. They could be arrested under the constitution only with the approval of the Standing Committee. Peiping said they "had been found engaged in counter-revolutionary activities."

"Counter-revolutionary elements have already sneaked into the Communist party or government organs and some of them are holding important posts of the party," said People's Daily, official organ of the Chinese Communist party.

These strong words were underscored by Lo Jui-ching, As minister of public security, Lo heads the secret police.

Masaki Nagamine, a correspondent for Japan's Kyodo news service who is visiting in Peiping, quoted Lo as confirming "the existence of counter-revolutionary elements among the party leaders and members."

It appeared certain the arrests and the threatened purge grew from the downfall of two big party functionaries last April.

They were Kao Kang, boss of Red China's five-year plan for industrialization, and Jao Shu-shih, party boss in East China. They were the first prominent Chinese party members to be purged.

The Communists said Kao, accused of plotting to seize supreme power in Red China, committed suicide. Jao presumably still is in jail.

People's daily in April implied that Kao and Jao were working—indirectly at least—for "American imperialists."

Competent opinion at the time was that Kao was made the scapegoat for the breakdown of the five-year plan. As boss of Manchuria, he earlier made a good party record in industrialization. He was then often called the "Manchurian Stalin."

Peiping Sounds Lone Voice
Of Discord On Conferences

LONDON, July 17 (AP)—A lone voice out of Peiping sounded the only discordant note tonight on the eve of the Big Four summit conference in Geneva. From everywhere else—from both sides of the Iron Curtain—came words of blessing and praise and good will for the participants.

Many tongues of many languages merged to give a name to the parley—"Conference of Hopes." The feeling in the air was one of optimism, tempered with caution.

Moscow radio broadcast reports of Soviet newsmen already in Geneva describing the talks as "a conference with which ordinary people of the whole world are linking their most sacred hopes for a relaxation of international tension and a strengthening of peaceful relations between all the states."

Refreshed by a good night's sleep, the President attended services at the picturesque American Church and then went into a series of meetings preliminary to the formal opening of the summit conference tomorrow.

Late in the morning a French delegation headed by Premier Faure and Foreign Minister Pinay arrived at Eisenhower's 232-year-old villa north of the city. A few minutes later British Prime Minister Eden and Foreign Minister Macmillan drove up. They remained three hours and 20 minutes.

By the long plane ride from Washington when he arrived in Geneva last night, "sleep like a log" and was up early this morning, an aide told newsmen.

He was accompanied to the church in downtown Geneva by Mrs. Eisenhower, Secretary of State Dulles and his wife, and Asst. Secretary of State Livingston Merchant.

The small American Church is Episcopal, but Americans of many faiths attend it. The rector is the Rev. Gerald B. O'Grady Jr., who last year was chaplain at Trinity College at Hartford, Conn., when Eisenhower received an honorary degree from the school.

U. S.-Soviet Arrival Talks
Raise Hopes

GENEVA, July 17 (AP)—The heads of the Big Four governments meet here tomorrow to try to end 10 years of cold war that have brought the globe at times perilously near World War III.

The first meeting is tentatively scheduled for 10 a.m.—4 a.m. EST—with President Eisenhower presiding and delivering the first speech. An afternoon session is slated at 3 p.m.—9 a.m. EST. An agreement has been made that speeches of the four national leaders will be released for publication.

On the eve of the meeting, there is a smell of optimism in the air, reserved and watchful, and supported principally by arrival speeches of the leaders of the two most powerful nations in the conference.

President Eisenhower flew into Geneva last night and told a cheering crowd at the airport he wanted to see the conference "lead all mankind into a more tranquil, better, fuller way of life."

This morning Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin flew into Geneva, got no cheers from the Swiss, but told them over the radio that "favorable conditions" now exist for a conference to ease world tensions. The Soviet government, he said, wants to make the utmost use of such conditions "in order that the hopes cherished by millions of people in all countries in regard to the conference of the heads of government of the four powers be justified."

To veteran correspondents such airport speeches are just so many words but they remembered that in recent weeks even the reserved U. S. secretary of state, John Foster Dulles, had spoken a bit more warmly. Moreover, the speeches were in sharp contrast to those of even six months ago on both sides of the Iron Curtain in which rancor and ill will occupied more space than expressions of hope.

West In Meeting
The Western delegations got immediately to work to harmonize plans for the meeting. Early today a conference at President Eisenhower's villa brought together Prime Minister Anthony Eden and Britain's Foreign Secretary Harold Macmillan, Premier Edgar Faure and France's Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay, and Secretary Dulles, along with a corps of experts.

The first contact between U. S. and Soviet delegations came shortly after lunch. Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov spent 20 minutes with Dulles at the latter's villa. There was no official disclosure of what they talked about, but one source said it concerned technical details of the conference. Molotov later conferred with Macmillan and Pinay.

The conference brings the heads of the big powers together 10 years and one day after the conference in Potsdam, just outside smashed Berlin, in 1945. France was not present then. Germany had just been beaten to her knees, her government destroyed and outlawed, and the last hours of Japan's resistance were visible.

But in the next few weeks occurred an event that still weighs heavily over the present conference and makes its effort so important. The first atom bomb was dropped. Now the four big powers, who represent probably more than two thirds of the industrial and military force of the world, will try to agree on how to talk themselves out of the danger of an atomic war.

No Final Decisions
Spokesmen for the Western side—the Russians so far have made fewer comments—predict the conference will make no final decisions. It will not outlaw the atom bomb nor agree on a reduction of armaments. What the West hopes is that there can be agreement that certain troublesome problems offer hope of solution through future diplomatic conferences. They hope to see these outlined definitely so that perhaps a foreign ministers conference, maybe in September, can get to work actively to ease the problems.

Dramatically foremost was the problem of Germany, which was divided at Potsdam under circumstances which have troubled the peace of Europe ever since. That conference—and the earlier one at Yalta where fateful decisions were reached both on Europe and the Orient—have made the Western Powers, especially the United States, wary of such talks "at the summit."

Both sides have promised to do (Please Turn to Page Five)

Soviet's Fast Decisions At Geneva May Affect West Group

Limited Failure Red Aim

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

THE WHOLE Soviet "collective leadership" is represented at Geneva today. This means it will be in a position to make fast decisions and to push the Soviet offensive without the laborious process of referring back to Moscow.

This puts the West at an initial disadvantage at Geneva, but it is a disadvantage which can be overcome if the Soviet aims are adequately grasped in advance.

There seems little question in Western diplomatic minds now that the principal aim of the Soviet collective of dictators at Geneva will be limited failure. This would indicate that the Russians will not wholly go along with President Eisenhower's idea that the task of the summit conference is merely preliminary and exploratory.

President Eisenhower's idea, in which apparently he is in accord with his Western colleagues, Prime Minister Eden and Premier Fauré, has been that there will be no sweeping, definite decisions made by the Big Four at Geneva. The Western statesmen contemplated sitting down with their Soviet opposite to assess the question of international tensions and hand down the specific problems to lower levels such as the four foreign ministers or the United Nations Disarmament Commission.

The fact, however, that Communist party boss Nikita S. Khrushchev, Defense Minister Georgi K. Zhukov and Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov will be at the elbow of Premier Nikolai A. Bulganin, indicates the Russians have a bit more than that up their collective sleeve.

There is a distinct possibility that the Russians will push hard for sweeping declarations of intent with regard to such things as disarmament, atomic weapons, all-European security and German reunification.

The Russian positions on all these questions are well known by now. While there has been a surface appearance of approaching Western ideas on some of these subjects, the Soviet positions even as amended in recent months do not come within shouting distance of Western ideas of security and mutual confidence.

Soviet insistence upon specific action at Geneva, at least in the form of broad, general declarations, could serve as the rock upon which the conference can be snaggled. Rejection by the West of Moscow's proposals surely will be pictured at home and abroad by the Russians as convincing testimony to the West's unwillingness to settle tensions.

Difficult For West
With all the individual, national political pressures involved, the situation is a difficult one for the Western statesmen, who, far more than their Soviet opposites, are answerable to public opinion at home. But there is a great deal at stake in the summit conference. Armed with a knowledge of certain Soviet weaknesses, the West could come up with a diplomatic defense and counterattack that will swing the weight of world opinion.

Virginia To Ask Judges For Year's Segregation Recess

RICHMOND, Va., July 17 (AP)—Attorneys for the Commonwealth of Virginia and Prince Edward County are expected to ask three federal judges here tomorrow to allow one more year of segregated schools despite the U. S. Supreme Court's opinion decreeing an end to public school segregation.

The hearing will mark the second round of the contest by Southern officials to determine just how the federal district courts will define the "deliberate speed" toward integration ordered in May.

A similar three-judge tribunal Friday at Columbia, S.C., directed the Summerton school district to make "necessary adjustments" and then proceed forthwith toward desegregation. The court set no specific deadline for the school district to make the "necessary adjustments."

It will be the turn tomorrow of Prince Edward County in south-side Virginia—like Summerton one of five localities specifically affected by the U. S. Supreme Court's decision.

Attorneys for the county and the state proposed to counsel for the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People yesterday that Prince Edward be allowed to operate segregated schools for another year. The NAACP attorneys rejected the proposal.

Special Court
In the case of Prince Edward, the special court must deal with a county that apparently will shut down its schools this fall unless time—and plenty of it—is allowed for complying with the desegregation edict.

County officials have refused to appropriate funds for the operation of public schools in 1955-56 and have indicated they will not appropriate money unless they are assured segregation can be continued.

After all, it was less than a hundred years ago that Gen. Sherman marched through Georgia. In eloquent protest the delegation hung this sign over the hotel's marquee: "The Robert E. Lee Hotel."

Grain Yield Reported High In State

HARRISBURG, July 17 (AP)—The State Agriculture Department reported today that the 1955 field crop estimate is better than average for corn, oats, barley, rye and alfalfa hay.

At the same time the department predicted less than average production for wheat, other hay, potatoes and tobacco.

A federal-state survey indicated that other crops expected to fare well will be apples, peaches, sour red cherries and grapes.

Season prospects for field crops were far from bright by the end of the May dry spell, but rains during June averaging 3.4 inches — 2.6 inches in one week — brought relief to nearly all suffering areas.

Field crops, particularly, benefited from the June rains, especially corn.

Although corn yields in Indiana continue to increase, farmers cultivate their corn crops about half as many times as they did 20 years ago, says a Purdue University scientist.

Man Dies In Surf Off Atlantic City

The Beach Patrol said it did not believe his death was the result of drowning and determination of the exact reason will have to await a post mortem by the county physician.

Life guards noticed Phoenix in trouble about 150 feet off shore about 1 p.m., and brought him ashore in a life boat.

They worked on him for 45 minutes before sending him to the hospital.

AF Captain Has Charge Of "Brass"

GENEVA, July 17 (AP)—Marshal Georgi Zhukov, boss of all Soviet armed forces, was under the control of an American Air Force captain for three hours today.

For that matter, so were Soviet Premier Nikolai A. Bulganin and Communist party boss Nikita S. Khrushchev, making their first trip to the capitalist West for a conference with Western leaders.

Their plane, a two-motored Ilyushin 12 of the Red Air force, was navigated from Berlin to Geneva by Capt. Clifford McConnell of Long Beach, Calif.

"There was no fuss, no trouble, no nothing," said McConnell about the flight, "except the Swiss wouldn't let us land when we wanted to, but made us keep flying around until the ceremonies were ready to begin."

McConnell Commands

Zhukov was the only one of his high-ranking passengers McConnell got near.

"He got an urgent call from some Russian in the (Geneva) tower and came up to the cockpit and talked to him over the radio for about five minutes. I don't know what they talked about, but Zhukov kept waving his arms in the air," said the non-Russian-speaking Californian.

As for any chance to get a gander at Bulganin and Khrushchev—"Brother you don't get back there (the passenger compartment.) You get in first, they lock you in and then the big boys get in."

Luckiest Man Alive Misses Quick Death

CAPE MAY COURT HOUSE, N. J., July 17 (AP)—A Philadelphia tipster tipped around power lines carrying 22,000 volts today and barely escaped electrocution after his car knocked down a utility pole. State police said Edward Bryk, 36, of 2635 East Madison Ave., Philadelphia, is the luckiest man alive after falling asleep at the wheel and smashing into the pole on Rt. 9 at nearby Swainton.

Melts Holes In Car

Electricity, pulsating through the fallen wires every few seconds, melted holes in the trunk and left door of the car.

Police said Bryk stepped out lightly during a moment when the power was off and lived.

He was treated at Burdette Tomlin Memorial Hospital here for minor lacerations.

Electric service to some 100 nearby homes was interrupted for three hours after the crash.

Told To Spend More

OTTAWA, July 17 (AP)—Trade Minister C. D. Howe has advised the House of Commons Canada plans to spend more than two million dollars on its pavilion at the 1958 Brussels Universal and International Exhibition. He said it will be the largest trade fair in Europe since World War II.

Wyoming's Governor Breaks Up State Penitentiary Riot In Face-To-Face Conference

RAWLINS, Wyo., July 17 (AP)—A dramatic face to face conference between Gov. Milward L. Simpson and convict spokesmen early today ended a 15-hour riot at the Wyoming State Penitentiary.

Three guards seized as hostages were released unharmed at 12:45 a.m. by the 75 rioters who, armed with butcher knives, held control of the main cell block and dining hall.

For the hostages safe return, the governor fired two guards accused by inmates of brutality and promised there would be no general reprisal in the state's first prison riot in history.

Gives Word

"You have my word, there'll be no reprisal," Simpson told four convict spokesmen in a two-hour bargaining session across a metal table in the prisoner-held dining room.

It was agreed, however, identity would be sought of the convicts who knifed a guard when the riot broke out at 9:30 a.m. Saturday. If identified the inmate will be punished, Simpson said.

Large Well-Trained Cadre Of Citizen Soldiers Are Essential To Nation

Possibly with a weather eye on re-election campaigns and with insufficient political courage to vote that which they know must be enacted if the Department of Defense is to build a sound force of reservists to back up the active elements, members of the Senate Armed Services Committee have approved a military reserve bill based almost entirely on voluntary participation for at least two years.

Thereafter, service in the reserve will become compulsory for those men who begin their active duty period 30 days after the passage of the new bill.

We pray that there will be no national emergency requiring an effective reserve before the law begins to build up such a force, for certainly there has been no indication in these post-war years of sufficient volunteers to make the reserves adequately efficient.

The new bill, true enough, as engineered by Senator Russell of Georgia, provides for a bonus system whereby a man volunteering for reserve service after his period of active duty will be offered $200 or more. Perhaps a small number of men will accept this money and join their fellow citizens who volunteered for reserve service without any such financial inducements, but we are inclined to doubt that the number will be sufficient to materially strengthen the reserves.

It is needless to point out again the obvious truth that, as a nation, we have never favored and still do not favor large active forces, but it should be equally obvious that if we are to continue this national policy we should have a commensurately large and well-trained cadre of citizen soldiers to supplement the smaller professional active group.

If We Are To Have Anti-Discrimination Legislation Then Should Include Old Age

Action by a committee of the State Senate has touched off a furore over precisely what form a state Fair Employment Practices Commission bill should take.

As it went to the committee, the bill undertook to prohibit discrimination in employment on account of race, creed or national origin and to put restrictions on employers for that purpose.

The committee added a prohibition against discrimination on account of age before approving the bill and reporting it out for Senate action.

Then the protests began. The FEPC lobby, which has been pushing the bill for the past 10 years, contends age discrimination has no place in a bill which is intended only to prohibit discrimination on account of race, creed or national origin, and that age discrimination should be dealt with separately.

Pressure Groups, Investigations, All Sorts Of Trouble Will Hit Bull Fighting

The latest complaint to come my way is about bull-fighting. Bull itself has long been with us, particularly in the form of oratory. Apparently some promoters are planning to introduce the bull-fight into American life. About everything else has been so introduced, including the Japanese beetle, the Dutch Elm disease, hepatitis, the Communist Party, the shape of Gina Lollobrigida, pastrami and bagel and lox.

The culture of all the world flocks to us. We eat chop suey and believe that it is Chinese food and we go mad about pizza pies. We are now being subjected to a pressure to consume gin and tonic and for a while our great intellects were moved by Existentialism. We get excited when Molotov smirks, although most of our politicians have themselves photographed smiling because the photographer tells them to smile, whether it is, at the moment, necessary or not. Nehru reacts to the synthetic smile with customary neutrality; he frowns.

Dog races have not gone too well in this country for some reason; perhaps because they are not sufficiently interesting to enough people. That mechanical rabbit is a stupid thing for a dog to chase, and American dogs are not stupid. Golf comes and goes.

As a sport, depending upon how much extra money one has on hand. Apparently it is an attractive sport even when a President prefers to play the piano.

The prize-fights are becoming a television attraction, although they still pack some halls. The point is that the fighters are not attractive personalities. There is nobody on hand like John L. Sullivan or Jim Corbett or Gene Tunney or even Joe Louis. The present gang simply do not stir men's souls.

Will a bull do better? It is hard to say from a strictly business standpoint. The humane societies will attack bull-fighting and will undoubtedly put private eyes on the promoters to discover a scandal, such as feeding the bulls locoweed or some other concoction.

It is a little difficult for me to understand why the humane societies should care more for bulls than for humans. Why don't they get after the prize-fighters who batter each other until they become idiots, although that surely did not happen to Gene Tunney or Jack Dempsey who seem to be endowed with as much brains as most and Gene, to my certain knowledge, with more than usual. Maybe fighting did these giants some good.

The bull is an animal that produces very tough meat unless properly fed and cured. As a fighter, he makes a noise like Vishinsky and rushes about like John Foster Dulles. I am no judge of his fighting ability but it seems to me that anyone with such power ought to be able to stomp out any tiny human who stands up to him. I am told that the characters out of "Carmen" lick the bull by great skill, which is a demonstration of mind over matter. But do bull-fighters really have minds? If so, why do they not think out a better way of earning a living? Who wants to dwell among sawdust and entrails?

The promoters of bull-fighting are not, of course, sporting gentlemen who go into this thing to improve the breed of the bull. They are entrepreneurs, seeking to make a fast buck from a novelty. They will be joined by real estate men who want to build arenas and by bankers who want to finance propositions and by concessionaires who look for new markets for hot dogs.

So we shall have another pressure group, fixing local officials and underwriting election campaigns and building up local support for favored candidates who will stand by the bull as the Prohibitionists were encouraged by the soft-drink gentry. And the humane societies will set up another pressure group to fight the bull-fight people. And there will be Federal and State financiers who will see a new source of taxes and they will get legislation through taxing the bull as they tax everything else. And then there will be a Congressional investigation to discover monopoly and corruption and Frank Costello, who probably never saw a bull, will be accused of owning the entire business under an assumed name. And Estes Kefauver will be a candidate for the Presidency.

So, let's stick to baseball.

Few men in the theater have done more for its elevation than Lawrence Langner who gives America a "Stratford-On-The-Hudson" this week, opening a theater built in the Shakespearean pattern and producing Shakespeare in the Elizabethan style. Behind the Stratford presentations is an "American Shakespearean Festival Academy" in which young actors will, through an opportunity to do Shakespearean plays, be "able to improve their speech." For which three cheers. The speech of most performers in today's theater is so muffled and mumbled that the words of a play seem top secret.

The more we think of the Chicago man who hocked money, the less crazy it seems. A pawnshop is about the one place left where you can take money and get much for it. Lincoln on $5 bills these days of inflation looks weak and undependable; Hamilton on a 10-spot has begun to look seedy and of little importance in a pinch. Give a waiter a 10 and a 5 for dinner for two today, and Lincoln and Hamilton resemble Donald Duck and Mickey Mouse.

Get-Up-And Go Lads Can Really Enjoy Vacations

Well, here I am again—in the Land of the Sky-Blue Waters, the Sportsman's Paradise, legendary stamping grounds of Paul Bunyan, Hiawatha, Minnehaha, and those cute little beavers that peddle beer for one of the brewers whose name escapes me at the moment.

This is the life, it says in the folder. What more could anyone ask than to unwind in a Land of Adventure, a Natural Playground, a Refuge from the Summer's Heat for Thousands, a Vacation Mecca for the Outdoor Man and Woman, a Haven for the Hay Fever Sufferer?

Here—hay fever or no hay fever—a man can Nestle on the Sandy Shores of Crystal-Clear Lakes, hidden away at the end of Entrancing Winding Roads and Trails, in any one of scores of resorts with Surprisingly Modern Conveniences and Accommodations ranging from One to Several Rooms, according to the needs of His Party.

Here, he can be sure, lie Unlimited Opportunities for Outdoor Enjoyment. The area proudly counts among its regular visitors a Host of Expert Fishermen—Boosters All—Who practically wear themselves out hauling in hefty specimens of a wide Variety of Game Fish, including bass, crappies, trout, salmon, pike, pickerel, perch and the Capricious Muskies. The clear implication is that any old visitors can do likewise.

If that doesn't appeal to him he can spend Carefree Days swimming or boating with Friendly Companions—among whom there appears to be one quite handsome girl who has a penchant for standing up in boats to wave at photographers.

Or he can take Delightful Walks through Quiet, Cool Birch Woods or picnic in Secluded Woodland Delis. Or whack around on Excellent Near-by Golf Courses. Or visit the Friendly Neighboring Towns and browse through their Well-Stocked Variety Stores, Tackle Shops, Dairy Bars, Pharmacies, Service Stations and Public Libraries.

If worse comes to worst, or in case of rain, he can run down countless Interesting Art Objects in the ubiquitous gift shops featuring Original Indian Handicraft. Beaded buckskin Mother Hubbards and birch-bark doodads, that is.

In short, in this Scenic Land of Sylvan Romance a man with any git-up-and-go can bustle about from sunup to sundown Recapturing the Zest for Living and, of course, forgetting his hay fever for the time being.

The first thing I want to do is find out whether all this is compulsory.

If it isn't, I plan to join the visitors, less frequently mentioned in the "literature," who spend their mornings eating pancakes and drinking coffee in the lodge, waiting for the mail, watching the man tinker with the outboard motors, and deciding not to go fishing until tomorrow.

I also anticipate some carefree afternoons nestling on my back in one of the several rooms, hidden away from expert fishermen, friendly companions and capricious muskies.

I never have hay fever.

Anita Leslie has written a revealing biography of her great grandfather, Leonard Jerome, one of the most remarkable characters on the New York scene during much of the nineteenth century. He founded the Jockey Club, raced yachts across the Atlantic, helped launch the New York Times, has a park and an avenue named after him in the Bronx, juggled railroads as though they were Scrabble letters, and collected paintings, opera stars, and dollars—but none of these achievements is his chief claim to fame today.

It was his beautiful daughter, Jennie, who really put the name Jerome among the high and mighty. She did this by marrying Lord Randolph Churchill and, in 1874, presenting him with a son. They named him Winston.

ROBERT S. ALLEN REPORTS

India Proposing Kind Of Summit Confab For Asia

Washington, July 18 — The "summit" conference idea is spreading.

Premier Nehru has just returned from a "triumphal" ten-day stay in Russia.

India is proposing a kind of Asian "summit" conference. The U. S., Britain, France, Russia, Red China, and India would meet to consider strictly Far Eastern problems—chief among them Formosa, Korea and Indo-China.

The U. S. is presently against such a parley.

That's what Secretary Dulles has told Senate leaders. They had gotten wind of the secret Indian scheme and asked him about it before he departed for the historic Big Four discussions now in progress in Geneva.

Dulles stated the Indian proposal is viewed as a possible diversionary maneuver. Also that the U. S. will not consider any Asian issue unless those directly involved participate in the deliberations. He stressed this policy also applies to the Geneva meeting.

"If Russia attempts to bring up Formosa or any matter involving the Chinese Communists or Nationalists," Dulles declared, "we will immediately block it. We have that power, and we won't hesitate for a moment to use it."

Dulles disclosed the Big Three expect the Soviet to spring a propaganda surprise at the start of the Geneva talks.

"It is our information that Russia will make certain spectacular proposals at the outset," said Dulles. "Their aim will be to portray the Soviet as the leading advocate of peace in the world. We anticipate they will gain some propaganda advantages at the beginning."

"Does that mean we will be placed on the defensive?" asked Senator Carl Hayden (D., Ariz.), chairman of the powerful Appropriations Committee.

"Yes, that may happen," replied Dulles. "But we are prepared for it. The President has every confidence that such an impression will correct itself before the conference is over, and that the U. S. will get full credit before the world as a sincere champion of peace."

Big juice — Russia and its satellites are spending the immense sum of $1,600,000,000 a year for propaganda.

That is the estimate of State Department experts, in an unpublished report to the House Appropriations Committee. The study is based largely on data from behind the Iron Curtain.

Of this huge sum, an estimated

$38,000,000 alone went for taking care of the traveling and other expenses of foreign visitors in Russia last year.

The State Department report expresses the belief that one-third (more than $500,000,000) of the enormous propaganda outlay is expended in the satellite empire, as follows: Poland—$200,000,000; Czechoslovakia—$110,000,000; Rumania—$96,000,000; Hungary—$73,000,000; Bulgaria—$38,000,000; Albania—$12,000,000.

Over-all expenditures are calculated as follows:

Radio propaganda — $233,000,000; full-time propagandists — $337,000,000; part-time propagandists—$395,000,000; printed matter, largely books and pamphlets — $50,000,000; TASS news agency — $25,000,000; films—$6,000,000.

Red propaganda expenditures outside the Iron Curtain are described as follows by the State Department study:

"The Italian government calculates that the Italian Communist party spends annually between $40,000,000 and $48,000,000. This covers all the activities of the party, but in a country like Italy most Communist expenditures are for either direct propaganda or propaganda-related political activities.

"French authorities estimate that about $150,000,000 per year is spent by the Communists there, with $30,000,000 coming from Soviet bloc countries and the balance raised by the French Communist party and its front organizations. . . . West German officials estimate that Communist East Germany is spending more than $30,000,000 a year on propaganda designed to influence West Germany.

"Reliable sources are of the view that the propaganda budget of the Communist party in India amounts to not less than $2,000,000 per month."

Newspapers Contribute Free Space

—by H. G. Heller

U.S. newspapers and their advertisers contributed almost 15 million worth of space, the most given in any year since World War II, to public interest campaigns conducted by The Advertising Council during the 12-month period ended March 1, 1953.

This was disclosed by the Council today in releasing its 13th annual report. The Council is a private, non-profit public service advertising organization supported by newspapers and other media, by American business firms, and by advertising agencies. Its purpose is to promote the use of advertising in the solution of such non-partisan national problems as traffic accidents, forest fires, school conditions, nursing shortages, etc.

According to the report, the nation's newspapers donated an estimated 891,282 lines of advertising—the equivalent of over 43,000 full-page advertisements—to 16 of the 17 major public interest drives conducted by the Council during its past fiscal year.

Of these drives, six were aimed at conserving our human and spiritual resources: Stop Accidents, Better Schools, Community Chests, Red Cross, Student Nurse Recruitment, and Religion in American Life.

Two others focused on conserving our natural resources: Forest Fire Prevention and Fire Prevention (in the home).

Five worked to build up our national defense: Ground Observer Corps, Civil Defense, USO Mail Call, Engineers Wanted, and the National Blood Program.

Two undertook to strengthen our national economy: U. S. Savings Bonds and Future of America.

Two attempted to strengthen our relations overseas: Crusade for Freedom and CARE.

Additionally, the Council and its supporting groups gave some degree of assistance to 43 other causes such as the American Heart Association, American Cancer Society, Boy Scouts of America, and United Negro College Fund.

The Good Old Summertime

The sun-worshippers are rampant, exposing their epidermis from the fringes of the Atlantic to Park Avenue penthouses. They succumb willingly, even cheerfully, to the happy torture of slanting their torsos at searching rays. In brief, it would be delightful if only the fish did the biting.

Go to the ball game and see what happens. You can't miss the cigar-smoking arsonists who suffocate you with tobacco fog or the in-the-know fans. The leather-lunged experts, full of self-esteem, make you feel like an intruder if you have the wild idea that you're supposed to watch the players—since the grandstand Stengels are playing a much better game.

The beach can be ideal for a stretch in the sun or a peep at the curvy charmers in bikinis. If you avoid the perils of sunburn, there's always someone who will accidentally toss sand in your food. Besides, life is tough enough without getting water in your ears.

The movies might be fun—well air-conditioned. CinemaScope and Technicolor. Not to mention stereophonic sound. There are hazards, nevertheless. Scientists have not devised a gadget for silencing the thunder of popcorn crunchers. And the plots frequently induce fatigue as you strive to follow the story that builds up to the clutch between the gal with gums and the fella with muscles and a tooth-paste grin. Then there's the horrifying possibility that they're going to flash one of those cinema reporters on the screen.

Prayer For The "Summit" (July 17th will be observed as national prayer day for the success of the Geneva Conference.—News item.)

First of all, Lord, make us realize that the only true "summit" is Thy dwelling place and that compared to it the "summit" at Geneva is like a dark hole at the bottom of a dry canyon.

Forgive us for being such poor judges of altitude.

This can be close to man's last chance and seldom has he needed Divine guidance so much. Impart it freely that he may not again come up with the wrong answers and once more be a pushover for trans, snares, devious ways, sharp curves and dead end streets.

May there in conference know that the chip on the shoulder can become the bomb on the city. Help them to see that a failure of Four Leaders can be the success of Four Horsemen.

Give to those at this crucial meeting clear eyes, keen ears and able minds. Restore to mankind and his rulers the horse sense of his forefathers in the generation of peace.

In Thy infinite wisdom and mercy spare the troubled world another run-around, carnival of snafu and deluge of empty words.

To what man so vainly calls the summit at Geneva may there come a penetrating light from Thy Summit of Summits brightening the dark spots, illuminating the pitfalls and piercing the fog of double talk, vicious propaganda and the big lie.

Help both sides to bury the hatchet, and not in each other. Give to those who defend the freedom of man the right sense of direction.

As you opened the eyes of the blind on the way from Jericho, open the eyes of the nations. As you said "Arise and walk" to the helpless so say it to a crippled, befuddled, and pretty sick world. Amen.

House Republicans To Vote Solidly Against Leader Taxes

Expect Some Democrats To Join Them

HARRISBURG, July 17 (AP)—Rep. Charles C. Smith, House Republican floor leader, flatly predicted today his fellow house GOP members will vote "to a man" against the classified income tax.

"If that bill ever comes to a vote, there won't be a single Republican for it," he told a newsman. "And we'll probably have a lot of company from the other side (Democrats)."

A solid 98-vote Republican bloc, plus seven Democratic "no" votes, would mean defeat of the 411 million dollar levy which Gov. Leader plans to bring to a showdown vote July 26.

No, Wooing

Smith, asked if he knew of any concrete efforts being made by the Leader administration to woo individual Republicans for the income levy, replied that he knew of no specific cases.

The Smith interview arose as Sen. Joseph M. Barr, Democratic state chairman, said the public is beginning to realize what he termed the advantage of a classified income tax over a 3 or 4 percent sales tax.

"It has made them (both Republican and Democratic lawmakers) realize that solution of the commonwealth's financial woes cannot be achieved with the handicap of embittered partisanship," Barr said yesterday.

In another development, chairman George J. Sarraf (D-Allegheny) expressed complete optimism the income tax measure will be approved by the House ways and means committee at a meeting Tuesday.

The session is part of the buildup which the governor hopes to build up to a climax July 26. At his news conference last week, Leader said he could rely on "perhaps 102" votes for the levy, with another half dozen on the fence.

Key Half Dozen

The half dozen hold the key to the tax picture.

On another front, the Democratic leadership has a decision to make on how it will carry out a plan by Barr to tie a graduated income tax into the 150 million dollar Korean War veterans' bonus.

The governor's idea is that it would take a separate vote to approve the tax and another vote to approve the bonus.

The state justice department, however, said it can be done that way or the two questions can be combined so that it would require only a single vote.

In any event, both a graduated income tax and the bond issue for the bonus would have to be adopted as constitutional amendments subject to passage at this legislature and again in 1957. After those hurdles, it then would have to be approved by the people.

Although tax developments are expected to dominate the legislative scene in the coming week, there may be fireworks in the Senate on fair employment practices legislation.

The House-passed bill was revised in Senate committee to include a ban against job discrimination because of race, creed, or national origin.

Age Amendments

Sen. Frank Ruth, assistant Senate Democratic floor leader, said the administration will offer amendments to knock out the age section. Problems dealing with employing aged persons, he said, will be handled by separate legislation.

Sen. Robert D. Fleming (R-Allegheny), one of the leading backers of the age amendment, said he will offer a change to fix the anti-bias age range between 40 and 62.

Votes in the House tomorrow and Tuesday on a host of appropriation bills may set the stage for the tax showdown next week.

their utmost to reunite Germany. Neither side appears willing to offer terms at all acceptable to the other — but they may agree to discuss in the future certain phases of the problem, which may ease European tensions about the future of Germany.

Premier Faure has announced he will press for agreement to seek a means of cutting down the costs of armaments so that the money saved can be spent on backward areas of the world — such as France's North African holdings.

The conference sessions will be held in the rambling old building of the League of Nations, now the property of the United Nations. It has been the site of many failures, but in this building these same four nations helped bring an end to the Indochinese war last year.

The conference is expected to last a week, but no longer, since Eisenhower has insisted he must return to Washington by July 24.

Horst Blames Democrats For Blocking Delaware Deepening

HARRISBURG, July 17 (AP)—Miles Horst, Republican state chairman, blames the national Democratic committee for stopping legislative action on a proposed six million dollar Federal appropriation for deepening the Delaware River Channel.

In a statement issued yesterday, Horst contended "friends" of Gov. Leader "had a hand in knifing" the appropriation.

Horst made the charges in attacking the appointment of Dr. John H. Ferguson, director of program and research for the state office of administration, to head a study to determine how Pennsylvania may get a larger share of federal aid.

State Ranks 47th

Leader said Thursday that Pennsylvania ranks 47th among the states for receipt of federal grants on a per capita basis. The governor blamed this partly on previous administrations of failing to appropriate funds to match federal aid appropriations.

"If he was sincerely interested in getting more federal aid," said Horst, "he should have used some of the influence he is supposed to have with the Democratic national committee to get through the six million dollar appropriation for deepening of the Delaware River Channel," Horst declared.

"From all reports from Washington," Horst added, "some of the governor's friends on that committee had a hand in knifing it."

Kemp Post's Majorettes Win Honors

HIGH-STEPPING majorettes from George N. Kemp Post, East Stroudsburg, won top honors in Saturday's 30th District American Legion convention parade in Hellertown.

The East Stroudsburg majorettes went through their paces in a parade which displayed the finest marching talents from posts all over the district. Temperatures in the mid-90's failed to daunt either the marchers or the crowds—an estimated 5,000 persons watched the parade.

Other Local Units

Among the units marching in the parade were drum and bugle corps organizations from Wilson-Fischer Post, Pocono Pines; Pocono Memorial Post, Mount Pocono; Evans-Blitz Post in Canadensis and the West End Memorial Post in Gilbert.

The district convention was highlighted by the parade and by meetings at which officers were named for the Legion auxiliary and committee reports were heard.

Elmer Heffer, Stroudsburg RD, was named a delegate to the national Legion convention to be held Oct. 6-9 in Miami, Fla. Heffer was one of nine delegates from the 30th district named to attend the national parley.

Earl Palmer, East Stroudsburg, chairman of the district blood donor program, gave a full report on Legion activities in contributing blood. Palmer's report showed that all men who have given a gallon of blood or more will receive citations during the State Legion Department convention in Pittsburgh Aug. 8-13.

Palmer, reporting for the committee on hospitals, also urged all posts in the district to pass and support resolutions calling for construction of an auditorium at the Wilkes-Barre Veterans Hospital. The George N. Kemp Post drew up and formalized such a resolution several months ago.

Palmer urged posts through their officers and members to contact legislators from their areas and to support the auditorium resolution.

A report from the committee on the Keystone State Boy's Camp showed that nine boys from the 30th district were sent to the camp during the past year. A report on Scotland School said that the current graduating class was one of the largest in the school's history. One youth in the class has been appointed to West Point, the report said.

Palmer was chairman of the George N. Kemp Post delegation to the 30th District Convention. Other delegates are Heffer, George Eppley, William Morohoreh, Melvin McElwaine and Theodore Janusz.

Among the key speakers at the convention in Hellertown were John F. Stay, Philadelphia and Charles Metzner, New Holland, candidates for the post of State department commander; Paul Walters, Pine Grove, candidate for eastern vice commander and Harry Harmon, candidate for chairman of the finance committee in the State department.

Disneyland Opens To Children

ANAHEIM, Calif., July 17 (AP)—The 17-million-dollar Disneyland, a combination world's fair and Arabian nights dedicated to the delight of children, opened today.

A year ago these 160 acres contained 11,000 orange trees. Today 22,000 invited guests swarmed through the gates and were dazzled by the wonders of yesterday and tomorrow, concocted by the imagination of Walt Disney and his fellow creators.

"It was nip and tuck but we made it," sighed Disney. Dressed appropriately for the hot weather, he greeted arrivals in light blue slacks, white shirt with red polka dots and Tahitian straw hat.

He seemed satisfied as he surveyed his realm, even though it still needs a few finishing touches.

The purchase of a monument is a permanent investment and an important family responsibility.

Auto Fire Dies Out After Alarm

A NEWARK, N. J. man's car "caught on fire" at midnight Friday—but it cooled off and went out before Stroud Township firemen got to the scene.

Township fire chief Clyde White said the driver told firemen he was driving along when he suddenly "smelled smoke" in his car. The motorist slowed down, stuck his head out the window and saw that "the whole road under the rear of the car was on fire."

The driver pulled the car off the road near the ice cream stand at N. Fifth St. and Chipperfield Drive. An alarm was turned in. Firemen found the car had cooled down when they got there.

White said the drum-type emergency brake on the car had apparently been partly on.

Stroud Firemen Place Order For $42,000 Worth Of Fire Truck Fighting Equipment

STROUD TOWNSHIP'S volunteer fire companies have tackled a $42,000 problem this summer.

The firemen have started a drive to purchase three pieces of new fire-fighting equipment. Each truck would be fitted with high pressure fog pumps, making the Stroud volunteer companies among the best-equipped fighting units in this area.

To raise the $42,000 necessary to purchase the apparatus firemen have set up a program of community participation which, they hope, will provide funds.

Benefit Carnival

One of these efforts will be the township fire carnival scheduled for Aug. 1 through Aug. 6. Another is the plan put into operation this week of asking home owners and residents individually to lend their support through distribution of tickets for the grand prize at the carnival. Firemen will leave the books of tickets at the homes, then return a few nights later and pick them up.

Firemen are urging community residents to remember that the volunteers answer calls for help all year round. The support of all community residents will be greatly appreciated, a fire company spokesman said last night.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

It isn't so much that "misery loves company" as that when you've got a misery you discover a lot of people have the same misery, and the least you can do is compare notes. Any way "Oh my aching back" isn't just a wack-crack around these parts, apparently. At least six other people have been comparing their symptoms with me.

So I might report that being well-strapped with adhesive tape stops the ache but substitutes an unscreatable itch. Depends on which you prefer and how active you have to be. I doubt if a picnic or an outdoor performance of a puppet show would be exactly what the doctor ordered, but they both proved good medicine for me.

At least they took my mind off the itch and/or ache. One of the pleasures of picnics, for instance, is seeing how much the children have grown since last year. You can make a sort of game of it, seeing how many you can recognize under the added inches, pounds and savoir faire. Fifty per cent is a good percentage particularly as they enter their teens.

Fireflies added their glamor to the Reinhart puppet show on Saturday night. That was fun, with the mountains for a backdrop and a breeze for air conditioning. It was fun to go backstage, too, and see how the magic was made.

Going to church, too, is a good way to get your mind off your troubles. But you'll discover that you never realized before how much rising up and sitting down there is involved in a worship service.

Like ice cream desserts? Then try this one. Put a layer of sliced pears in individual baked pastry tart shells, top with vanilla ice cream. Serve with hot chocolate sauce for a glorious sweet!

Stroud Fire Aux. To Buy Resuscitator

Stroud Township—Members of the auxiliary to the Stroud Township fire department, their families and friends met at the Middle Stroud fire house, Pocono Park, on Wednesday night, July 13, for a picnic supper at six. About 50 persons were present.

After supper a representative of a Philadelphia firm demonstrated a resuscitator. Following the demonstration the regular July business meeting was presided over by Mrs. Gertrude Haydt and was opened with the pledge of allegiance to the flag. All officers were present with the exception of the treasurer Mrs. Ward Kelper.

A discussion was held concerning the purchase of a resuscitator and it was decided to buy the one demonstrated that night. Plans were made for instruction in the use of the machine for firemen and other interested persons.

Final plans were made for the carnival which will be held during the first week of August. Women of the auxiliary will have stands with pizza pies, pies, cakes, buns and fresh homemade doughnuts on sale. Each night baked goods from a different section of the township will be featured with the members from the Lackawanna Trail district supplying the bake sale products for the opening night, August 1. It was decided to have a fish pond for the children. Mrs. Mabel Shook is chairman of the carnival committee.

Announcement was made that vanilla and serving spoons are being sold and may be purchased from members.

An invitation to meet at the Anomink fire hall on August 10 was accepted.

The meeting closed with group prayer.

"Please observe," Ruth Fetherman said to me this past Saturday morning, "that right now I'm not modeling any Indian hats or basket caps—for once I'm being dignified." She was too—just as dignified as when she plays the organ in church or sings with the community chorus. Which reminds me that one of the loveliest radio programs ever sponsored by Wyckoff's featured the music of Ruth at the piano and Ernie Michelfelder at the organ. Maybe we should repeat it one of these 9:45 a. m.-s . . .

"He's just about the greatest trumper on things I've ever seen," Betty Colvin mused Saturday as she watched Walter Wyckoff walking back and forth over a new rubber-backed cotton loop rug by Fruit of the Loom, "I have to be," Walter explained, "Our customers want to know whether the loops will mat, and whether the rug soils easily, and you can't answer a question you're not prepared for." Walter's right, of course, and conscientious too. One thing we do know, the throw rugs of nylon and viscose broadloom he's advertising this morning are a positive steal at 2.98—and they love to be stepped on. Hardly show a mark! . . .

The day will probably come when no one will have to do anything," Van Serfass remarked the other afternoon. "Everything will be done for us." She was referring to the frozen dinners already prepared and waiting in the Super market deep freeze. On the other side of the picture, we see an increasing number of "Do It Yourself" projects being advertised. The latest, is McCall's short-cut to creating wooden furniture and accessories through iron-on patterns which simplify cutting. Right now society seems to be going through a transition with do-it-yourself and don't-do-it-yourself battling it out—and ours is probably an easier, better world because of this happy tug of war . . .

My pal Betty Bartholomew will return today from her vacation and from my point of view, at least, it's about time! Dottie Dunn, her co-worker in Holt Wyckoff's merchandising office, probably agrees with me . . . The social whirl will undoubtedly be a "hooping" success for our young girls in this fall and winter. Just arrived in our girls and teens department are the newest of new hoop petticoats. Of crisp white nylon they have a wide, ribbon-wire hoop around the bottom. In sizes 8 to 14 . . . Looking like a million and vowing that Washington, D. C. isn't a bit hotter than the Stroudsburs, Kay Phillips drops by to see her Wyckoff friends. Kay left our switchboard in April to work for the government, and is having a wonderful time in our nation's capital . . . Have you noticed the new tile floor in our shoe department? It's in the pink—a nice contrast to the department itself which is definitely in the black, and busier than the proverbial beehive. The new carpeting hasn't arrived yet, but will be a handsome rose beige. Everything's rosy at Wyckoff's—no doubt about it.

Puppet Show Premiere At Reinhart Home

Delaware Water Gap—The premiere of Baron Reinhart's new puppet show was held on Saturday night at 8:30 at "The Little Theater on Oak Street" in Delaware Water Gap to a group of about 25 invited guests.

At the foot of a sloping lawn at his home, Reinhart has erected a small puppet-size theater with special scenery, special lighting and sound effects. This year he has added new puppets including a horse who serves as master of ceremonies, Bertha Katt who sings torrid songs, a magician and his assistant, and a new comedy team.

This year, the Reinhart's son, Alan, manipulated all of the puppets; Miss Sandy Carlton was in charge of scenery and lighting, and Reinhart created the voices and sound effects.

The show will be repeated at various times during the summer as benefits for groups wishing to sponsor performances.

Mrs. Reinhart served light refreshments on the lawn following the show.

Joan Blondell Starred At Playhouse

JOAN BLONDELL, stage and film star, will be the next attraction at Pocono Playhouse in a new play "Palm Tree in a Rose Garden," by Meade Roberts, beginning tonight and continuing throughout the week, with matinees Wednesday and Saturday.

Miss Blondell, one of Hollywood's most glamorous stars has been in show business since childhood. She made her Broadway debut in the drama "Tarnish" and later was starred in "The Trial of Mary Dugan" and "The Ziegfeld Follies." Going to Hollywood, she became an immediate success in films, starting in fifty pictures. More recently Miss Blondell was on the National tour of "A Tree Grows in Brooklyn" and has appeared in summer stock in "Happy Birthdays" and "Come Back Little Sheela."

Joan Blondell

Appealing Story

"Palm Tree in a Rose Garden" is an appealing story, interwoven with lusty humor, about a pretty woman whose dreams of a famous stage career were exchanged for a disillusioning marriage. Later, as a widow, she has her own rooming house in Hollywood, living with a daughter who lacks the glamour she had hoped for. With indomitable spirit, she stimulates the vision of the young "hopefuls" who live with her, seeing in each of them the star she had wanted to be.

The author skillfully combines pathos and laughter in a great play that bares the suppressed longings of a woman who lives vicariously on the success of others and who symbolizes the one great moment in her youth with a lone palm tree in her garden which she tenderly keeps spotlighted. Featured in the cast supporting Miss Blondell are Alice Ghostley, Barbara Baxley and George Voskovec, who was last seen at the Playhouse as leading man with Margaret Truman, last season. Others in the cast are Ron Harper, Betty Lou Holland, Belle Flower and Herbert Evers.

Moss Hart's Comedy At Bushkill

MOSS HART'S popular comedy about Broadway show people has been chosen by the Bushkill Playhouse for their next attraction. This is "Light Up The Sky", which delighted New York audiences for many months during the 1948-49 season, and is scheduled to open tonight and will run through July 23.

The action of "Light Up The Sky" revolves around a try-out of a new play in Boston and its attendant tribulations. It is a story of show people who love each other, get into trouble, desert each other, and then find out they need each other.

Set in the hotel suite of the leading lady, "Light Up The Sky" traces the emotional gyrations of the raucous star, the wise-cracking producer, a whining director, an idealistic young playwright, and a handful of spiteful hangers-on. All of them are sure they have discovered a genius in the unknown author until, rudely disillusioned when the audience walks out on them at the premiere, they slink back to the hotel to deride each other and insult the playwright. After the "rave" notices have appeared, they fall on each other's necks with devotion again. The indignant playwright has to be forcibly hauled off a plane, but we leave him taking over command of the cyclonic group.

The Cast

Playing the role of the star is Betty Furia; Mike Murtagh is Carleton Fitzgerald, the emotional director; Peter Sloan, the young playwright is played by Robert Owens; Victor Kuring plays the dynamic producer, Sidney Black; Rosemary Torri is his actress-wife, Frances; Barbara Winchester will play Stella Livingston, the mother of the actress; and completing the cast will be Claudette Angelis, Frank Miller, Frank Perich, Warren Eshback, and Francis Mayville. Mr. Mayville will also direct the production.

The Playhouse is located on the grounds of Bushkill Manor on Route 209, Bushkill, Pennsylvania. Curtain time is 8:30.

Picnic Plays Grist Mill Next Week

THE PULITZER PRIZE play, "Picnic," by William Inge, once a dramatic critic for the St. Louis Star Times, is to be presented at Paton Price's Grist Mill Playhouse starting Tuesday, July 26 through Sunday, July 31 with a matinee on Thursday at 2:00.

"Sabrina Fair" is currently playing through Sunday with Jill Kraft, who replaced Betsy von Furstenberg, doing the title role.

Comedy Drama

"Picnic" is a comedy-drama telling the story of a not very bright college football player, turned tramp, to be played by Jerry Orbach, who arrives in a small Kansas town on a hot Labor Day and causes complications—in the lives of a handful of women who find themselves attracted and repelled by the ruggedness of a crude kind of masculinity they had never encountered before.

Mary Diveny and Olive Templeton will play two of the women affected by the advent of the attractive young hoodlum, and Daniel Keys and Jay Harnick will be seen in roles of men whose serenity is also disturbed by the roustabout's unsettling effect on the women they had been placidly courting until his explosive arrival.

The production will be directed by Richard Clemmer, who for a number of years directed the television version of "One Man's Family." The settings are by Charles W. Baker.
